ARUBA

Where happiness lives.™

An adventure in Aruba is most often found in a discovery of the unexpected. Visitors to the island delight in the amenities of world class hotels, and take advantage of the opportunity to plot their own road in Aruba. The sophistication of our leeward side is rivaled only by the dramatic natural and historic sites that can be found throughout the island and especially on our windward face.

The back roads of Aruba take travelers past eerie rock formations, cacti and our famous divi-divi trees. Further along the rugged environs of the island's cactus-studded landscapes, past our world famous white sand, palm-fringed beaches, there also lies the rolling patch of green of golf courses that promise an adventure of a different sort. Dive under the sea, and you are transported to another world, one populated by numerous tropical fish, bountiful coral and even a shipwreck or two.

Complementing a day of discovery is a night of excitement with action to be found in the island's casinos, showrooms and nightclubs. Pair an evening escapade with a visit to one of our many fine restaurants and enjoy a gourmet dining experience in Aruba's relaxed atmosphere.

One of our greatest assets, however, is our people, whose warm, welcoming smiles greet visitors at every turn. The people of Aruba gladly share their island and its unique culture, well displayed in folkloric festivals, art exhibits and especially during a very joyous carnival season.

The island has so much to offer you. We invite you to find out for yourself why Aruba remains one of the top tourism destinations in the Caribbean.

ARUBA AS AN ISLAND

LOCATION AND SIZE

Aruba is located in the heart of the southern Caribbean, 15 miles (20 kilometers) off the coast of Venezuela. It is 19.6 miles (30 kilometers) long and 6 miles (9 kilometers) across, at its widest point, with an area of approximately 70 square miles (184 square kilometers).

TOPOGRAPHY

Topography and vegetation are unusual for a Caribbean island. On the south and west coasts are miles of pristine white beaches that rank among the most beautiful in the world. The northeast coast, along the windward shore, is rugged and wild. The interior is desert like with a variety of cacti and dramatic rock formations. The island's most famous trees are the watapana, or divi-divi trees, all permanently sculpted into graceful, southwest-bending shapes by the constant trade winds.

POPULATION

Aruba's population of about 100,000 inhabitants is made up of a broad international mixture of well-educated people with a pleasant nature and a zest for hospitality. The modern Aruban is generally of mixed ancestry, claiming Caquetio Indian, African and European roots. However, the face of Aruba is in continuous flux with the island, drawing individuals from all over the world. Today, the island claims over 40 different nationalities, who live and work peacefully on the island.

CLIMATE

Aruba enjoys a very healthy climate, making it a year-round paradise for residents and visitors alike. The average temperature is 82 F (28 C), with cooling trade winds and the rarity of tropical storms and hurricanes. Aruba lies outside the hurricane belt therefore the rainfall is very moderate, averaging about 16.1" (408.9 mm) per year.

HISTORY

Aruba's earliest inhabitants, the Caquetio Indians, are thought to have arrived here  $\pm$ 4,000 years ago. The first European to land on Aruban shores was said to be the Spanish explorer Alonso de Ojeda in 1499. In 1636, the Dutch took possession of the island until 1805, when the English gained temporary control. The Dutch returned to power permanently in 1816. Aruba is now a separate identity within the Kingdom of The Netherlands.

EDUCATION

The schools of Aruba are subject to the same high standards applied to educational institutions in The Netherlands. Around 15% of the island's budget is devoted to education, resulting in a high level of education for the island's inhabitants. Higher education goals are sought abroad or through local educational institutions.

ISLAND INDUSTRIES

The economy of the island had received a boost from gold, discovered in 1824, and aloe, which had been introduced to the island in 1850 and thrived so well in Aruba's climate that the island was once the largest exporter of aloe in the world. But true prosperity was not realized until 1924, with the establishment of the oil refinery of LAGO, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey (later EXXON). However, as a result of the reduced worldwide demand for oil and an oversupply of refining capacity, Exxon decided to close its facility on March 31, 1985. The oil refinery re-opened in 1991 under the Coastal El Paso Oil Refinery Company. In March of 2004 the refinery was sold to Valero Energy Corporation.

The closing of LAGO was an economic setback for the Aruban community. Faced with rising unemployment, the island directed its full energies into the tourism industry. The successful development of the island's tourism product resulted in a three-fold jump in the number of visitors, increasing from 206,747 in 1985 to 732,514 in 2005. Today, tourism is the main pillar of the Aruban economy.

POLITICAL STRUCTURE

On January 1, 1986 Aruba became a separate entity within the Kingdom of The Netherlands, an event of historical importance. Up to this point, Aruba was part of the Netherlands Antilles, a six-island federation that also included Bonaire, Curacao, St. Maarten, St. Eustatius and Saba.

This island grouping, in turn, forms the Caribbean component of the Dutch Kingdom, a constitutional monarchy with the Queen of Holland having the dual role of Head of State of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, as well as of the country of Holland.

At a Round Table Conference (March 1983), all partners in the Kingdom (Holland, the Central Government of the Netherlands Antilles, and the governments of the individual islands) agreed to grant Aruba "separate status" within the Kingdom of the Netherlands. As a result, since January 1, 1986, the Kingdom consists of three partners: Holland, Aruba and the Netherlands Antilles (5 islands). Aruba remains part of the Dutch Kingdom, but has direct ties to Holland, no longer needing the Central Government of the Netherlands Antilles to manage its affairs.

Aruba's "Status Aparte" within the Dutch Kingdom does not entail full independence for the island, a step that may be taken only in the very distant future. Most accurately, the new political status can be described as a form of "Commonwealth" with Holland and its sister islands, with which Aruba retains strong economic, cultural, political and defense ties.

Aruba has its own constitution based on western democratic principles, with a Governor to form an 8-member Council of Ministers vested with executive powers and headed by a Prime Minister. A 21-member Parliament is responsible for legislative matters. Judicial powers lie with the Common Courts in Aruba and in the Netherlands Antilles and ultimately with the High Court of Justice in Holland.

LANGUAGE

The official languages of Aruba are Dutch as well as the native tongue of Papiamentu, which evolved from Portuguese, Spanish, Dutch, and a trace of African, English and French. English and Spanish are fluently spoken among the Aruban population.

DRESSCODE

The dresscode is casual and informal summer wear. Elegant clothes and cocktail dresses are recommended for a night out in one of the elegant restaurants, nightclubs or casinos. Most casinos require jackets for gentlemen. Bathing suits are not permitted in the shopping and business districts. Please keep in mind that Aruba is a windy island.

TIME

CUSTOMS

Customs regulation - Aruba

If you are traveling to or from a country outside Aruba, your baggage will have to pass through customs and may be subjected to customs examination. Besides articles for personal use, persons 16 years or older are allowed to bring to Aruba 200 cigarettes, 25 cigars and 250 grams of tobacco, as well as, 2.25 liters of wine, 3 liters of beer or 1 liter of Spirits (hard liquor). If you have more than the mentioned amounts, you may have to pay the necessary duty on these goods.

Customs Declaration - USA

As of November 4, 2002, the standard personal exemption-the total value of merchandise travelers may bring back to the United States without having to pay duty has increase from $400 to $800. The increase was contained in the Trade Act of 2002, which became law on August 6, 2002. All other personal exemption rates remain unchanged.

The duty-free exemption applies if:

- The items are for your personal or household use.
- They are in your possession when you return to the United States. Items to be sent later may not be included in your $800 duty-free exemption.
- The items are declared to Customs. If you do not declare all items that you obtained during your trip, you risk forfeiting them.
- You are returning from an overseas stay of at least 48 hours.
- You have not used your exemption, or any part of it, in the past 30 days. If you use part of your exemption you must wait another 30 days before you are allowed another $800 exemption.
- The items are not prohibited or restricted.

Family members who live in the same home and return together to the United States may combine their standard personal exemptions. Children and infants are allowed the same exemption as adults, except for alcoholic beverages and tobacco products. Only 1 liter of alcohol and 200 cigarettes or 100 cigars may be included in this exemption.

Items purchased in "Duty Free" shops are subject to duty if the value of your total purchases exceeds $800.

For more information on duty-free exemptions, please read Customs "Know Before You Go" brochure. This publication is also available on the U. S. Customs Service Web site at <http://www.customs.gov/travel/travel.htm>.

You will receive a Customs Declaration form as you return to the United States, which must be completed in before arrival. Families can pool together and bring home $2,400 worth of duty free items.

Liquor: The duty free allowance for US citizens ages 21 or older is 1 liter, the value of which must be included within the $600 exemption.

Alcohol/Tobacco/Perfume: You may declare 1 liter of alcohol or perfume if you are 21 or older. You can bring in 100 cigars and 200 cigarettes.

TAX INFORMATION EXCHANGE AGREEMENT

Recently the U.S. Treasury Secretary John Snow, Prime Minister of Aruba Nelson Oduber and Aruba's Minister of Finance and Economic Affairs Nilo J.J. Swaen joined forces in Aruba to sign the Tax Information Exchange Agreement with the USA. This agreement is designed to ensure an exchange of information regarding taxes in order to develop a close and cooperative relationship between Aruba and the United States and will undoubtedly have a positive effect on the island. This unprecedented pact also offers tax deductions to both the group and meeting/incentives market doing business on island. Aruba expects TIEA will help to improve incremental business for the island in both the group and the meetings/incentive markets. The TIEA has gone in effect already.

Aruba is the ninth significant offshore financial center to sign such an agreement with the U.S. in the last two years joining other countries including Antigua, Barbuda, Bahamas, British Virgin Islands, Cayman Islands, Guernsey, Isle of Man and the Netherland Antilles.

The signing of the TIEA between Aruba and the U.S. is a show of goodwill between the two countries and will also help to guarantee that no safe haven exists anywhere in the world for funds associated with illicit activities, including terrorism, money laundering and tax evasion. By signing the TIEA and, in turn, enforcing international tax laws, both countries have pledged to maintain the confidence of honest taxpayers, the fairness of the tax system and both plan to work diligently to facilitate a more effective exchange of important tax information that is vital to uphold full and fair international standards and maintaining the integrity of both countries financial institutions. This agreement has come into effect on August 12, 2004.

MARRIAGE IN ARUBA

Civil marriages are now possible in Aruba and must take place at the historic Civil Town House, Stadhuis, located at Wilhelminastraat 8. Couples may also arrange a religious blessing after they have been legally married or just hold a romantic blessing beachside if they prefer.

Aruba's Civil Town Hall "STADHUIS"

HISTORY

Aruba's Civil Town Hall (Stadhuis), is a Caribbean styled mansion that was build between 1922-1925. This mansion contains the physicians' practice and private residence of Doctor Eloy Arends who commissioned the construction of the building before his marriage to Maria Monica Lacle. The members of the Arends family had been living in Aruba since the middle of the nineteenth century, and as successful businessmen they were considered to be leading residents on the island. Dr Eloy Arends however took a different course by obtaining his medicine degree in Amsterdam and upon his return to Aruba became the first official government physician. One aspect about Dr Eloy Arends that remained true to tradition was his social life. He enjoyed organizing social events and festivities at his house at Wilhelminastraat. In 1960 after he passed away his son Jesus Eloy Maria Arends took up residence in the manor, but later he rented the building as a restaurant.

In 1986 the estate was sold to the government of Aruba, together with the adjacent Hotel Colombia building with the stipulation that both the buildings would be restored. Over the years the building fell into ruin and later the roof was destroyed beyond repair by a large fire, and only ruins remained. It was restored and combined with the Hotel Colombia building into a new complex, and currently houses a council hall and function space for the performance of among other things civil marriage ceremonies.

The following are the guidelines for the various ceremonies:

- If either party has been widowed, they must submit a death certificate.

ACTIVITIES

LAND BASED ACTIVITIES

Arikok National Park

A day of discovery is as easy as a walk in the park, with the island's Arikok National Park providing a glimpse into the island's past and enjoyment of its natural beauty.

A variety of colors and textures are found in the awesome features of Aruba's untouched landscapes. The azure blue of the Caribbean Sea at the horizon is thrown in contrast to the rolling green of cactus-studded hills, the dark hues of pockmarked limestone plateaus and the stark white of undulating sand dunes. Its beauty, though raw, rivals the orderly environs of the carefully manicured gardens of the island's resorts. Finding the park, a protected area that encompasses almost 20 percent of the island's landmass, is easy deciding on which trail to plot can be an overwhelming yet tempting task. Officially set aside as a protected area in 1997, the park foundation is now planning the construction of a Visitor's Center, which would help illuminate for the visitor the park's many natural, historic and cultural treasures.

Accompanied by the constant wind and the occasional cry of the Aruba's "prikichi" parakeet, hikers can appreciate the diversity of Aruba's native flora species with park rangers helping to point out examples of Aruba's 48 different types of native trees, some species of which are so scarce that they can only be found in the confines of the park. Other discoveries can be found in the animal species that find refuge under the park system, including the "shoco," an endangered burrowing owl, and the tiny "blenchi" hummingbird.

Leisurely adventure is found in the 20 miles of walking trails that have already been blazed through the park and takes travelers past the island's most interesting sites. Suggested trails include the Miralamar trail [translating literally as Sea View] as it is a place where you can appreciate Aruba from all sides, with views of the sea on both the north and southern coasts, and with the trail also leading past the remains of an old gold mine. Other highlights include the picturesque Cunucu Arikok trail that leads visitors on a stroll past a hundred-plus year old "Cas di Torto" adobe home (one of only three examples of which still exist on the island) as well as huge tonalite boulders on which can be found Indian rock drawings.

Similar Aruban rock drawings can be found on the roof of the Fontein cave, the trail to which also leads to the Fontein plantation, site of a fresh water pond and the original weekend refuge for the island's early Dutch Lieutenant Governors. Rangers are regularly stationed at different locations, including the Fontein cave, ready to explain the attraction for the curious visitor. Intrepid travelers can recharge at the snack shop found along the road to the Fontein cave.

Arikok National Park includes a number of important and diverse natural and historical areas including: Arikok Center, the mid-section of the park with access possible from the main road through Santa Cruz, is an area that features the Arikok hilltop, which at 184.5 meters above sea level, is the second highest point in Aruba. The area also features examples of early Native Aruban art and artifacts, and domestic and farm facilities (traditional "cunucu" (countryside) houses and "cas di torto" mud-covered homesteads). Prins Center, located in the middle of the park near the coast, is an area of great deal of both natural and cultural significance - the island's only fresh water source found here facilitated plantation farming of coconuts, aloe and fruit - with the remains of the Prins Plantation and the still-functioning Fontein Plantation as visual reminders of early agriculture. Fontein Cave, which contains clear indications of Indian rock drawings, are also found in this area.

Yamanota Center, located south of the Arikok Center includes the highest hilltop in Aruba (Yamanota at 189 meters/620 feet), and the remains of an old gold mining operation at Miralamar.

The park is also home to other important natural areas including the beach cove of Dos Playa located on the coast of the island's windward side, south of which are the caves of Quadirikiri and Huliba (Tunnel of Love). Arikok National Park is now governed by a foundation, which allows it to seek alliances with other nature organizations throughout the world. This project is also financed by the European Union Development Fund, which also includes the construction of a new main road for the park. Construction of both the Center and the main road will commence at the latter part of 2006.

More information about the park can be obtained through the Arikok Park Foundation, Piedra Plat 42, Tel: (297) 582-8001, e-mail address: fpna@setarnet.aw.

ENTERTAINMENT

There are many comfortable, charming and exciting nightspots in Aruba with dancing, entertainment, and lively, action-filled casinos. Most of the hotels have their own special night of entertainment. Tropical nights, beach barbecues and cocktail parties are always available. Attractions at the hotels and nightclubs include international entertainers, fashion shows, local dance groups, limbo, fire dances, steelbands, discos and the beat of local bands. The action in the casinos is constant and the atmosphere is charged with excitement. There are many relaxing activities for those who prefer a slower paced evening; a tropical drink on a moonlit patio under a star studded sky, a quiet stroll on a peaceful beach or a quiet dinner.

ARUBA: Where Happiness Lives

2006 CALENDAR OF EVENTS

- January 1                    NEW YEAR'S DAY
Aruba welcomes in the New Year with music and an island-wide fireworks display. After the last flash of fireworks and the "pop" of the champagne cork, troupes of traveling musicians, known as "Dande," brighten the New Year with song, bestowing blessings of goodwill and prosperity. Aruba's joyous holiday atmosphere pervades varied events, from casual gatherings to grand scale receptions at island resorts.
- January-February           ARUBA 52nd CARNIVAL CELEBRATION
Aruba's biggest party of the year is a month-long celebration consisting of festive "jump-ups" (street parties), spectacular parades and creative contests. Music and flamboyant costumes play a central role, from the Queen elections to the Grand Parade, which winds it ways down city avenues to the delight of thousands of spectators. Street parties are held in various districts throughout the month, allowing everyone an opportunity to participate and dance to the season's most popular brass band, steel band and roadmarch tunes. On the evening before the start of Lent, February 28, 2006, Carnival officially comes to end with the symbolic burning of "King Momo."
- January 7                    ARUBA'S TORCH PARADE
First organized by the Tivoli Club, Aruba's oldest social club, the Torch Parade is now the first official parade on the Aruba Carnival Foundation (SAC) schedule. The tradition continues with bright lights leading the way down the streets of the capital of Oranjestad. The parade begins at 8:00 p.m. and helps set the pace for the festivities to come.
- January 25                   BETICO CROES DAY
On the day of his birth, Aruba pays tribute to its greatest statesman. The late Gilberto Francois "Betico" Croes helped Aruba obtain its "Status Aparte" (separate status) within the Dutch Kingdom. This official holiday features various sporting events and games throughout the island.
- January 25                   BETICO MEMORIAL 5K & 10K RUN
Betico Croes' hometown of Santa Cruz sponsors an amateur road race through hilly terrain. The circular route takes runners through residential neighborhoods and back to the main intersection of Santa Cruz. Avoiding the hotter hours of the day, the starting pistol sounds at 5:00 p.m. Open registration through IDEFRE Tel. (297)-582-4987 or Fax: (297)-583-6478 E-mail: idefre@setarnet.aw or idefre@hotmail.com for additional information or registration.
- February 3                   31ST CHILDREN'S CARNIVAL QUEEN ELECTION
Carnival excitement builds as the island elects its first queen of the season, the Children's Carnival Queen. Contestants, between the ages of 6 and 9 years, demonstrate their carnival spirit through dance performances, speeches and carnival shows. Venue & time: Aruba Entertainment Center in Oranjestad at 7:00 p.m.

- February 4                   GRAND FINAL CALYPSO & ROADMARCH CONTEST
 The island's best bands and top singers compete for the honor of King or Queen of Calypso or Roadmarch. Original musical compositions and lyrics, presented in the social commentary of Calypso or the catchy, danceable beat of Roadmarch, help define the carnival season. The most popular songs will be featured in the upcoming jump-ups and parades.
 Venue & time: Joe Laveist Sport Park in San Nicolas at 7:30 p.m.
- February 10               43rd ARUBA CARNIVAL YOUTH QUEEN ELECTION
